

Population Connection

It is estimated that by 2025, if human population growth continues as it is, the Earth will no longer have the resources to support life. This ad campaign was developed for Population Connection to bring awareness and educate about solutions and sustainability. Images of easily recognizable signs, Earth, and looming text were used to be visible from a distance and to stimulate the audience into action by wanting to learn more.

